New York Embezzler Confesses When Arrested by Local Detectives.

EX-COUNTY COMMISSIONER

JOHN THOMAS TELLS EXPERI-ENCES DODGING OFFICERS.

After skillfully dodging authorities for almost a year in practically all the large cities east of Salt Lake, County Commis sioner John Thomas, alias John Miller, of Batavia, N. Y., wanted for the empezling of $3,500 in funds that had been collected for the building of a county jail, was arrested, yesterday morning, by Detectives George Sheets, Harry Curran and Earl Ripley. He had only entered the office of Chief of Police S. M. Barlow when he confessed that he was the em-

Talk With Thomas.

Detective Sheets called the attention of Detectives Curran and Ripley to the actions of Thomas. They followed him, and closely studying his face, came to the conclusion that he was the John Thomas wanted in New York state. When they drew him into a brief conversation he seemed to enjoy the company of his new acquaintances, spoke of the weather and asked what could be done to spend an enjoyable Sunday in town. Then he suggested that all take dinner somewhere. When Detective Sheets began to inquire into the residence of Thomas the old soldier displayed uneasiness. Explaining dier displayed uneasiness. Explaining that he had lived practically all over America and that he was a man of leisure who had decided to pass his latter days at travel, he admitted that he had

When Chief of Police Barlow entered that it was unnecessary to ask question "I have fallen; I have been arrested; am the man they have been looking fo back in Batavia since last February. will tell you everything." interrupter Thomas. "What I tell you is the trut! and I want you to wire back to Batavia that John Thomas, the embezzler, the sol-dier and the county commissioner, has been taken at last. The jail that I tried so hard to build is probably finished now so hard to build is probably finished now and they can lock me up in it. It is a very strong jail, I think, one of the best in the world, and there will be no danger that I will ever again get away."

In the statement made by Thomas as he went on, it was explained that he had taken $3,500, part of a large fund with which he had been entrusted by Genesee county. It was a fund which had been raised through his personal influence and for which he had fought during 16 years of his commissionership to be spent in the building of a county jail. The building of this jail began last year, and when Thomas disappeared with a large share of the buildings funds the foundation had been completed and also the cells designed to hold the most important criminals.

The disappearance of Thomas stopped progress on the building for a time. But new funds were raised. The building was resumed and Thomas says that it was only a few weeks ago that he heard about its completion in one of the New York newspapers, in which comment was displayed to the effect that the man responsible for its construction was at large, having embezzled a portion of the building funds.
